Developing Place-Based Education Partnerships

List the stakeholders in your community (businesses, municipal boards, ngo's, federal and state agencies, churches, civic organizations, schools, clubs, etc). Be specific. For each, take a stab at naming their principal area/s of concern (quality after school programs, maintaining the fishery, etc), then note some possible concrete opportunities for place-based education partnerships.

Stakeholders in Your Community – Be Specific	Primary Concerns or Areas of Focus for Each Stakeholder (Your Best Guess)	Potential Place-Based Education Partnership Opportunities

© 2006. Center for Place-Based Learning and Community Engagement, a partnership of Marsh-Billings-Rockefeller National Historical Park, National Park Service Conservation Study Institute, and Shelburne Farms. www.promiseofplace.org